Wrapping Text

In Line with Text: when you want a small image to appear within your sentence like this .

Square, Tight and Through: The images are within the text with the text continuing around the image. See the examples in this text. You will need to Edit the Wrap Points to achieve the Tight and Through effects. Click on Wrap Text to find this option, then drag the handles around the edges of your picture. You make extra handles by clicking on the dashed line. This can be quite a fiddly process.
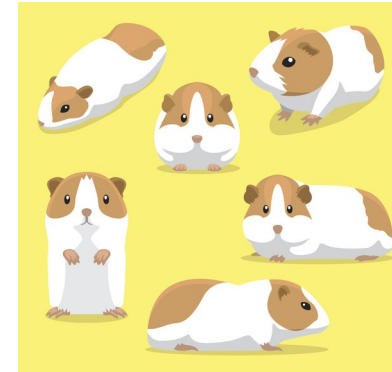

Tight

Through: This can make the text hard to read, so use this with care.

Nulla posuere, odio eget pharetra volutpat, massa lorem bibendum ex, eget maximus eros justo at dolor. Curabitur malesuada dui ac ligula malesuada vulputate. Donec scelerisque non enim eu eleifend. Morbi vestibulum, magna ac iaculis volutpat, quam sapien sollicitudin magna, id vehicula justo magna sed nisl. Proin vel felis sit amet tortor aliquam rhoncus. Sed pretium mi ac tempor congue. Donec tincidunt consectetur mauris. Suspendisse ultricies eleifend vulputate. Aliquam sed ipsum ut leo porttitor finibus sed in diam. Praesent lobortis libero nunc, at varius dui luctus a. Maecenas ac velit vestibulum, lacinia felis eu, euismod magna. Quisque placerat urna leo, sed vulputate lacus venenatis id. Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipiscing elit. Phasellus vehicula lacus et arcu finibus, in ultrices arcu varius.

Top and Bottom: The images are within the text with the text continuing above and below the image. Useful to use when an image comes after a paragraph or steps in an instruction list. Like this:

Behind Text: The image will be in the background. You can investigate transparency of this image to make the text more readable by clicking on the Transparency button in the Picture Format tab (Desktop App only).

In Front of Text: This will block out what ever is behind it: Nunc ut diam nec velit facilisis aliquet. Donec pretium quam et enim fringilla sodales. urna vitae, tincidunt bibendum risus. Aliquam commodo est auctor arcu impe mus sed sagittis mauris, vitae hendrerit magna. Nunc eget ullamcorper ante. Sed ullamcorper iaculis mattis. Aenean in urna ac risus
